RIBA MEAP access course 2018 - Suzhou

RIBA MEAP access course

The RIBA MEAP access course offers:

- three intensive seminar days (19th-21st June 2018)
- office briefing via video conferencing (on request)
- tutorials (on request)

What are the benefits of doing the MEAP access course?

It will give you an in-depth education in professionalism, clients, users and delivery of services, legal framework and processes, practice and management and building procurement. Having passed the MEAP access course, you will be eligible to apply for Chartered Membership via the Membership Eligibility Assessment Panel. As a Chartered Member you will have access to online resources via a dedicated website. As a special offer you will also receive Affiliate Membership¹ (from 1st January 2018 until 31st December 2018)

¹ subject to eligibility and approval by Membership Admissions Committee

The benefits of Affiliate Membership include:

- be part of 40,000 strong worldwide community who are passionate about architecture
- free RIBA Journal and online access to over 2,500 articles on RIBAJ.com
- free use of the RIBA Members Information Centre – a personal phone or email information support service
- access to members only area of www.architecture.com
- informative RIBA bulletins and newsletters
- tips, advice and exclusive downloads via the online RIBA CPD section

Affiliate Membership will continue until you have passed the MEAP access course and you have been elected to Chartered Membership. If you are not elected to Chartered Membership before 31/12/2018 you will be contacted by RIBA membership to be asked if you would like to renew your Affiliate Membership for 2019, which will be subject to an annual subscription fee.

Who can join

The MEAP access course has been developed for architects and graduates based overseas.
